Dark evergreen woods—
Blossoming pear trees emerge
In the evening light

Dawn on a spring sea—
Then a glittering
From a thousand jumping fish

Overnight
A yellow field of mustard
Beyond the quiet stream

A field of deep grass—
Its vibrant eruption
Of orange-red poppies

Fiery clouds
Over a red barn—
Green apples turning

Golden wheat kernels
Catching light of day
Bending all ways in the wind

David Rosen

from

Modern Haiku

VOL. XXIX, NO. 1  WINTER-SPRING, 1998