Course Description and Objectives. In 17th Century Philosophy students learn to analyze and critically evaluate modern philosophers (e.g., Descartes, Hobbes, Spinoza, Leibniz, Locke) who set the stage for later discussions of mind, nature, freedom, knowledge, and God. By interpreting their works in light of secondary literature, students also develop the ability to identify quality scholarship and incorporate it into their writing and speaking. The course is a writing intensive course and has no prerequisites.

- The semester grade is based on:
  - four 500-word essays that summarize and reconcile supplied articles (10 pts each); turned in at “Assignments” on eCampus.tamu.edu Sunday midnight.
  - mid-semester and final essay exams (20 pts each).
  - a 10-page research paper (20 points).
- There is no separate grade for attendance or participation, but both can affect your mastery of the material. Student Rule 7 notes that you are expected to attend all classes.
- You should outline readings before each class (based on the questions in the readings packet and on the course website) to prepare to discuss in class the main claims, arguments, and objections. If something in the reading puzzles you, consult with others (e.g., on the Discussion page of eCampus) before class so that you are prepared.
- If you miss the mid-semester or final exam, contact me immediately. My expectations of the quality of essays rise if essays are submitted past deadlines.
- Minimum grades: 88=A, 78=B, 68=C, 57=D.
